MARCY FREEBURG ANNOUNCES RUN FOR COLORADO HOUSE DISTRICT 62

Marcy Freeburg, Southern Colorado small business owner, announced today she will run as a Republican for Colorado House District 62. Freeburg said her experience as a small business owner and disabled veteran, as well as a rural Colorado rancher, would give her important insights to the issues that affect her neighbors in the 62nd District.

District 62 includes much of south-central Colorado including all of Alamosa, Conejos, Costilla, Mineral, and Rio Grande counties as well as sections of Saguache, Huerfano, and Pueblo counties.

Freeburg said she would emphasize positive programs in her campaign.

"We've seen such negativity in the national and state campaigns that we tend to believe our government has to be confrontational," she said. "I won't be focusing on differences between the parties. Rather, I'll be emphasizing what can be done through cooperation and what a tremendous opportunity Colorado has to move forward in many sectors. I'll be a leader who will work for positive change in our district and in our great State."

"I understand the need for growth but also the challenges that accompanies growth," she said.

Freeburg also supports a common sense approach to the undocumented alien issue applying both the law and a certain amount of "compassion". She is also a strong supporter of renewable energy in Colorado.

A biography is attached.
